BIOGRAPHICAL/HISTORICAL NOTE

Radio and television journalist, political observer, actor, and storyteller Brooks Read was born in Baton Rouge, La., in 1926. He began broadcasting on Baton Rouge radio station WJBO at the age of nine reading Uncle Remus stories on air. He continued announcing at WJBO and entered Louisiana State University in 1941, where he participated in theatrical productions. Read then attended Northwestern University (Evanston, Ill.) on scholarship from the National Broadcasting Company, and later Columbia University. Read managed several Louisiana radio stations, and from 1955-1964 he worked for Baton Rouge television station WBRZ as "Your Esso Reporter." Also during the 1950s, Read produced a recording of Joel Chandler Harris's Tar Baby, and then began creating and recording original stories, using some of the same characters known from folklore that Harris used, like Brer Rabbit and Brer Fox, but also featuring characters he created. These recordings, known as the Uncle Remus Radio Programs, were marketed to and broadcast by radio stations nationwide. He produced and sold several Uncle Remus stories on record albums known as the Brer Rabbit Albums.

In the mid-1960s, Read established an advertising and public relations firm while also serving as capitol correspondent for New Orleans television station WWL. He served as Gov. John J. McKeithen's press secretary, 1969-1970, and also participated in numerous Louisiana Democratic party committees, 1974-1991.

Read married Maureen Hushar in 1949, and they had three daughters. He died in 1991.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The collection is primarily comprised of reel to reel audio tape and scripts of Read's recordings of both original Brer Rabbit stories and stories he wrote based on the characters. User copies on audio cassette have been made of the reel to reel recordings. Subject files include correspondence, contracts, marketing materials, artwork, and newspaper articles related to his recordings. The subseries are Articles and Newspaper Clippings; Brer Rabbit Albums; Liberty Broadcasting System; Radio Stations; Storytelling; Uncle Remus Radio Programs; and Webber Correspondence, July 18, 1952-July 28, 1959. Phonographic records in 33, 45, and 78 formats are of background music and sound effects used in the shows.

SUBSERIES DESCRIPTIONS

- A. Articles and Newspaper Clippings
Articles and newspaper clippings, largely from local newspapers, describing Brooks Read's radio career and announcing his storytelling events. One magazine article is about Joel Chandler Harris.
- B. Brer Rabbit Albums
Correspondence concerning the making of the Brer Rabbit albums and their distribution. Advertisements, publicity articles, order forms, and original artwork.
- C. Liberty Broadcasting System
Correspondence and memorandums concerning the broadcasting of the Uncle Remus stories on Liberty Broadcasting System (LBS) affiliate stations. Also, correspondence and documents dealing with the LBS bankruptcy. Other papers contain lists of radio stations; a schedule of programs; production, traffic and program reports; F. C. C. decisions for 1952 and a report to affiliates.
- D. Radio Stations
Correspondence with radio stations that aired the Uncle Remus stories. Other documents include bills for monthly use of Uncle Remus tapes, file folders with reel numbers and dates listed on them, commercial scripts for sponsors, contracts, testimony letters and check stubs.
- E. Storytelling
Various documents concerning Brooks Read's storytelling appearances, contracts with the New Orleans Jazz and Heritage Festival, photos of Brooks Read in Uncle Remus costume and booklets and catalogs dealing with making puppets. Story ideas include cartoon clippings and a list of folktales with some of their sources.
- F. Uncle Remus Radio Programs
Documents about the Uncle Remus radio program include promotional fillers, commercial scripts, opening and closing formats, scripts for public service announcements, scripts of songs, an advertisement flyer, a print relief, sales material, schedules, testimony letters, a resume flyer, a clipping from Variety (December 12, 1951) and various correspondence. Also included are an inventory of titles and reel numbers, the Uncle Remus Club plan and scripts, a television pilot script produced by Hushar Productions, Inc., and a 1974 draft of a proposal to William Morris Agency.

G. Webber Correspondence

Inclusive dates: July 18, 1952 – July 28, 1959. Correspondence in the form of letters, telegrams and notes of telephone calls. Contents cover the transcription rights of the Uncle Remus show, regular business information and litigation between Read and George Webber. Documents include a contract between Read and Webber, Air Express receipts for shipping tapes, envelopes with a record of checks received on them, Western Union money orders, non-sufficient funds notifications, a flyer for a rival storyteller (Jimmy Scribner) and a Dunn and Bradstreet Report on Webber Radio Programs.

CONTAINER LIST

Each story is designated by a number referred to on the actual reels as the reel number. The first list below, Stories/Reels, provides a box listing for all the story/reel numbers. Some titles are included in the Stories/Reels list for reels without numbers in boxes 18, 19 and 20. Box 20 also contains one video, "Brer Rabbit Master," which is the master for the proposed television program, and one film, "Uncle Remus Afternoon Show."

The second list, Scripts, gives script titles and numbers. Most of the script numbers do not correspond to the story/reel numbers. Those numbers that do are designated with an * before the script number. Of the numbers that do not correspond directly, some story/reel numbers are known to match certain scripts. These are denoted by (Reel #___) following the script title. There are several script titles that can be found under more than one script number; these are noted in parentheses after the script titles.

The final two lists are Subject Files and Phonographic records.
